Synopsis:

Metabolic oncology is seeing a surge in interest as the relentless search for cancer cures continues. It is focused on finding ways to prevent, arrest, reverse or cure cancer by targeting the differences in the metabolic behaviours of cancer versus healthy cells. While the energy-production pathways are prime targets, there are other metabolic functions that offer avenues for intervention.

Thus far, Metabolic Therapies have largely remained controversial. Although the claims by its proponents are somewhat impressive, independent studies have shown otherwise. This lecture will review some of the popular metabolic therapies, and propose a multiple therapy approach that could improve overall outcome, just as conventional chemotherapy combines several chemo drugs to achieve a cumulative or even synergistic effect.

CANSURVIVE & IT'S PURPOSE

Cansurvive is a support and information service for those who are challenged with cancer. Not just information and support, but a service that offers a greater awareness of the benefits of holistic, non-invasive cancer therapies, nutrition and diet, as well as orthodox treatments; what is available and where to access them. It is a window of light into the world of healing, where the word "Terminal" is a challenge, not a death sentence.
